

Discover a targeted selection of bespoke training modules that offer a deep dive into common skin concerns, current hot topics, business and marketing strategies lead by our senior facilitators and invited experts. These interactive live stream sessions promote focused discussion and allow an open forum to ask questions and discuss idea with your educator.

Education is first. The charge to be the best in postgraduate skin care education is lead by our founder, Jane Wurwand, who recognised that skin therapy education was not elevated in the United States, so she put her training, passion and experience into action by starting The International Dermal Institute (IDI) in 1983 and then Dermalogica in 1986. Today, IDI is considered the international gold-standard for postgraduate skin and body therapy training 100,000 skin therapists annually with 37 locations worldwide, reaching over 80+ countries.

The International Dermal Institute redefines professional excellence and offers skin therapists a unique opportunity to reach their personal best. We hope her message in this video inspires you to continue with your education throughout your career and make your professional and personal dreams come true. IDI-trained therapists were a cut above the rest: business owners from coast to coast took a keen interest in the highly trained, confident students who advanced their training at IDI.

The International Dermal Institute redefines professional excellence and offers skin therapists a unique opportunity to reach their personal best.

September 2021 livestream workshops (AEST)

IDI: Post Inflammatory Hyperpigmentation + Scarring

Acne is a challenging skin condition for not only the client but also for the Professional Skin Therapist. It is not just the Inflammatory lesions, comedones, and the impaired barrier function requiring treatment but also the Post Inflammatory Hyperpigmentation which can outlast the Acne itself. Book now to attend our latest Education Booster and learn how PIH forms in the skin, how the client can prevent it, and most importantly how to treat it with both professional and home treatment.

13.9.21

11.30 - 12.15

how to book: <https://www.dermalinstitute.com/international-locations/>

October 2021 livestream workshops (AEST)
IDI: Hydroxy Acids Resurfacing for a Professional Skin Therapist is pivotal to the results achieved for many skin conditions and there are a plethora of options available to achieve this from Mechanical Modalities to Chemical Formulations. Hydroxy Acids hold immense popularity due to their proven clinical results but with so many varieties available and new Ingredient Innovation's which is best for which skin condition? Book now for this education-packed Booster to supercharge the results achieved in your treatment room.	11.10.21	11.30 - 12.15
IDI: Treatment Management for the Atopic Triad As our environment becomes ever more polluted and our lives ever more stressed, so does the increase of those suffering from the atopic triad. In this education booster we will share best practices for the identification and effective treatment management for this challenging condition.	20.10.21	11.30 - 12.15

The International Dermal Institute is at the forefront of research and development of skin treatments and techniques worldwide. IDI is also responsible for the ingredient research and product development behind the Dermalogica skin care line of professional and retail products.

In the same manner in which our classes extract the latest information from a breadth of sources, every Dermalogica product must meet The International Dermal Institute's exacting standards of ingredient formulation and product development before landing in your treatment room and on the shelf. Our team of research scientists and staff are continually featured at international trade shows and are often guests on television and radio shows.

Products created by a skin therapist for skin therapists: this is just another way in which The International Dermal Institute creates the optimal learning environment for every student, and why the Dermalogica product line is the number one choice of skin care professionals worldwide.